Inner Tubing Gets A New Look At Big Bear Snow Play

Traditional family inner tubing gets a whole new look at longtime favorite Big Bear Snow Play. For starters, inner tubes don't have to be just black. While some tubes are black at Big Bear Snow Play, many others are red, blue, even yellow thanks to colorful covers, making for better family photos to be sure.

Stretched out over each tube, the covers fill the donut hole at the bottom, creating more surface area for sliding thus making the ride even faster. Plus snow doesn't splatter up during the downhill descent either so guests keep their rears drier.

Runs don't have to be just straight downhill shots either. Big Bear Snow Play, which at one time was the Rebel Ridge ski area and now offers the longest tubing runs in Southern California, has up to eight traditional downhill lines but also incorporates whoop-di-dos on some runs too. It's a thrilling variation on the traditional pinwheeling rides on inner tubes.

At Big Bear Snow Play there's always plenty of white stuff to enjoy, regardless of what the weather does, thanks to state-of-the-art snow-making. Lenko fan guns, like the ones used at ski resorts, blast jet streams of snow, and already depths are approaching 20 feet high... that's two stories high! As the season progresses depths will soar to 30 feet or more, enough snow to ensure tubing through Easter and beyond.

Getting to the top of all that snow is a snap thanks to Magic Carpet uphill lifts. No more tiring walks back to the top after each ride; guests just step onto the moving conveyor belts and are whisked back up for more fun. One lift is enclosed in Plexiglass for guest comfort on those chilly or snowy days and the second operates during busy periods to guarantee customers get all the downhill fun they can handle.

"(Magic Carpet lifts) are very convenient, especially when you have little kids," said Ryan Bradley during a recent visit with his two young children. "Walking up gets very frustrating. They don't make it very well."

Big Bear Snow Play also has a separate Kiddie Area for little ones.

When it's time for a break from the action, head indoors for a winter warmup. Big Bear Snow Play has a heated indoor base lodge with family-priced snack bar, video games and restrooms. Forget gloves or a hat? Big Bear Snow Play has those available too.

Picnic tables just steps from the slopes. Guests are welcome to bring their own lunches or come and go as they want.

Big Bear Snow Play is open daily for inner tubing from 10am to 4pm. Just $30 buys a full day of play which includes tube rental and use of the Magic Carpet lifts.

Big Bear Snow Play is on Big Bear Blvd. in Big Bear Lake, three miles east of the famous Alpine Slide bobsleds and inner tubing area, next to Motel 6.

Cable Air Faire 2015 Celebrates Its 40th

NO ENGINE Dr. Frank Donnelly doing his routine in his 1941 Taylorcraft. Mid-show, he cuts his engine and continues with his aerobatics and lands without an engine. Dr. D is based at Cable Airport.

Cable Air Faire 2015 celebrates its 40th annual event and dedicates this event to Cable Airport as it celebrates its 70th anniversary. Put your imagination to work as we go back in time 70 years . . .

The Southern California home front during World War II supported the war effort in many ways, including a wide range of volunteer efforts and submitting to government-managed rationing and price controls. Everyone agreed that the sacrifices were for the national good “for the duration.” Millions of students, retirees, housewives, and unemployed moved into the active labor force. Hours worked increased as leisure activities declined sharply. Most families were allocated only 3 gallons of gasoline a week, which sharply curtailed driving for any purpose. Production of most durable goods, like cars, new housing, vacuum cleaners, and kitchen appliances, was banned until the war ended. In industrial areas housing was in short supply as people doubled up and lived in cramped quarters. Prices and wages were controlled. Americans saved a high portion of their incomes, which led to renewed growth after the war.

During this time, Dewey and Maude Cable had moved to Southern California from Iowa to be farmers. Dewey's brother, John, was a pilot. He was considered a barnstormer, flew air mail for the Postal Service and he was a test pilot for Douglas Aircraft. John got Dewey up in the air in the '30s and that's all it took. Dewey fell in love with aviation, and so did Maude. A few years later, 1945 to be exact, Dewey carved out a couple of runways on some open land in what is now known as Upland. The rest is history . . .

It's the 70th anniversary of Cable Airport, the world's largest family owned and operated public use airport, home to more than 300 aircraft. Come join the celebration of days gone by as they take you back to 1945.

This year's Air Faire will consist of as many “old time” antique planes and cars as possible as they try to recreate the year 1945. Along with an aerial display of many of these aircraft, Dr. Frank Donnelly will wow the crowd with his engine out aerobatics and Dan Buchanan, without an engine, will entertain with his “Flying Colors”.

“If you appreciate the days of the greatest generation, where our country was truly united, when neighbors knew and helped each other out, and this nation proved itself to be the greatest in the world, then we invite you and your family to actively participate in this year's celebration at Cable Airport.”

The 2015 Cable Air Faire takes place on Jan. 10-11, 8am-5pm. Cable Airport is located at 1749 W. 13th St. in Upland. For more information, go online to www.cableairport.com or call (909) 982-6021.

Stitch Like An Egyptian

Tentmakers Of Cairo

Road to California Quilters Conference brings the appliqué artistry of the Tentmakers of Cairo to California for the first time ever! Curated by international textile artist Jenny Bowker, this exhibit sheds light on the ancient art of Egyptian tentmaking. This California premiere exhibit, "Stitch Like An Egyptian: Tentmakers of Cairo" hopes to make the world aware of the beautiful yet shrinking art of the few remaining Tentmakers who continue to ply their trade.

This ancient, intricate craft has been facing struggles, as machines try to replace hand-made items and unscrupulous businesses copy and sell their unique designs.

Road to California Quilters Conference is bringing this exhibition to the Ontario Convention Center to raise interest and awareness in this traditional, beautiful art.

The artists are from Khan Khayamiya—the Market of the Tentmakers in the heart of Old Islamic Cairo. Two of them, Hosam Hanafy Ahmed Mahmoud and Tarek Abdelhay Hafez Abouelenin, will be on hand at the exhibit to demonstrate their method of appliqué.

This ancient artwork used to line tents or screens covered in appliqué that could decorate a whole street. Curator Jenny Bowker notes: "There were tents found in Pharaonic tombs from 2,000 B.C. ... There are pictures in the Rameses panels at Abu Simbel of tents lined up." The brilliantly colored appliqué are still used for ceremonial purposes at weddings, funerals, henna parties, or Ramadan celebrations.

Today's quiltmakers recognize the skill needed for such beautiful and colorful appliqués. A thriving international demand for the work keeps the few remaining tentmakers in business. IER

The Lincoln Memorial Shrine

Redlands' Civil War Era Secret

Many in Southern California will be surprised to learn that the only museum, library, and research center dedicated to Abraham Lincoln and the Civil War west of the Mississippi River is right here in Redlands. Part of A.K. Smiley Public Library, the Lincoln Memorial Shrine was made possible by the philanthropy of Robert and Alma Watchorn in 1932.

Robert Watchorn, a poor immigrant from the coal mining region of England, came to the United States with a dream for a better life. His ambition led him beyond the coal mines of Pennsylvania and into government service, eventually rising to an appointment by President Theodore Roosevelt as Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island. Following his public service he entered private business, first through a leadership role at the Union Oil Company, and then in his own venture, the Watchorn Oil and Gas Company.

When Watchorn and his wife became winter residents of Redlands in the 1920s, he was already enamored with Abraham Lincoln. He felt strongly that if citizens of other nations understood Lincoln, as he did, it would improve relationships between the United States and other countries. This interest in Lincoln led him to create the Lincoln Memorial Shrine, a building to house his impressive collection of Lincolniana.

Since that beginning in the stone octagon designed by noted southern California architect Elmer Grey, the Shrine has become a leading institution for the study of Lincoln and the Civil War on the west coast. Thousands of letters and diaries written by those involved in this national crisis have been added to the collections, as well as artwork and artifacts. The centerpiece of the collection is a Carrara marble bust of Lincoln sculpted by George Gray Barnard. In addition to more than thirty documents written or signed by Abraham Lincoln, dozens by members of his cabinet or high-ranking military officials, one of the most important items on exhibit is the painting "Thoughts on Peace on Lincoln's Birthday" by noted artist Norman Rockwell.

Numerous events are held at the Shrine each

American Indian Art In Riverside

Americana Indian Shows bring authentic Native American arts to the public

With more than 5,000 authentic items for sale, the Anderson's Americana Indian Show is perhaps the largest event of its kind to be found in the Inland Empire. For purveyors of traditional, Native American jewelry and arts, the Riverside show can't be beat.

Coming to the Elks Lodge in Riverside on January 23 – January 25, 2015, the show puts on display for sale everything from turquoise jewelry to Navajo rugs.

Americana Indian Shows had its beginning in 1947 when founder Lee Anderson (a fifth generation Arizonan) attended school on the Navajo reservation and worked after school and weekends for his uncle at the family's Sanders, Arizona trading post. The Andersons collected American Indian art such as Navajo rugs, pottery, baskets, jewelry and other Indian and western items. This cultivated a passion and respect for Native American art and culture that inspired Lee to pursue his dream of bringing Indian art to the public. In 1966 Lee and his brothers, Wayne and Arvid, began selling Navajo weavings on a small scale at local flea markets and events in Tucson, while Lee was stationed at Fort Huachuca, Arizona. As sales grew, the brothers expanded inventory to include Jewelry and other Indian arts; with their success came the founding of Americana Indian shows in 1968.

Upon retirement from the Pentagon in 1974, Lee moved his family from Virginia back to Arizona to pursue the business full time with his brothers. Two galleries were opened in 1974, and at the same time road shows continued to take art and jewelry to customers across the country. Eventually the galleries were closed so Lee and his brothers could focus exclusively on conducting shows and sales nationwide.

Today that tradition continues with the next generation of Andersons. The shows – more than 25 a year around the country – feature an inventory of thousands of Native American made items from Arizona and New Mexico, including turquoise jewelry, kachinas, paintings, baskets, sand paintings, pottery, carvings, Navajo rugs and more. Visitors can shop for works created by top Native American artists from the Navajo, Hopi, Zuni, Santo Domingo, Acoma, Santa Clara, Jemez and more.

Admission is free to the show. See their ad in this issue for a special offer. The Elks lodge is located at 6166 Brockton Ave, in Riverside. For more information, call (928) 606-2972, or go online to www.americana.net. IER

The rainbow arched over the sparkling meadow as the unicorn pranced, and fairy dust sprinkled... like twenty tons of napalm blast from the power pack of the Megatronic robot's arm weapon... and poured like gentle rain from the silvery clouds, replenishing the earth... into vast burning destruction over the landscape... Unicorns... Blasters... You're impossible! Oh, yeah! (He smiles and bops her with his Nerf ball.) Okay, kids, wrap up your writing assignment.

New Year's Eve 80's Bash At The Cave In Big Bear

Missing Person's Dale Bozzio

Dale Bozzio has toured throughout the United States since the release of their 1980 4-song EP entitled Missing Persons. Singles "Mental Hopscotch," "Surrender Your Heart," "Destination Unknown," "Words," and "Walking in L.A.," were met with great success in Los Angeles, New York, and San Francisco. These songs were especially popular on the MTV for their unique sound and visual effects.

When in Rome

When in Rome is an English new wave group, they are best known for their 1988 single "The Promise." When the song became popular, hitting the top of Billboard's Dance Club Play chart, Virgin ordered an album. A remixed version of "The Promise" was the first single from their self-titled debut album. It was an instant success, barely missing the Top Ten in the United States, peaking at No. 11. Months later, the trio reached Billboard's pop chart's lower reaches for the last time with "Heaven Knows" (No. 95, 1990).

BOW WOW WOW

BOW WOW WOW music ranges from simple and goofy to complex, crisp, pop masterpieces. Their music has been described as a pastiche of Latin and African beats, 50's rock-n-roll, and Spaghetti Western soundtracks. The band packaged all of this together with an incredible sense of humor and vigor.

Gene Loves Jezebel

Gene Loves Jezebel is a British rock band formed in the early 1980s by identical twin brothers Jay Aston and Michael. Gene Loves Jezebel's best-known songs include: "Heartache," "Desire (Come and Get It)," "The Motion of Love," "Jealous," and "Sweetest Thing." Gene Loves Jezebel, if nothing else, might well be the most fascinating, grossly underrated and endearing duo that popular music has ever known.

Michael Aston of Gene Loves Jezebel.

The Cave in Big Bear is celebrating the end of 2014 on Dec 31, ringing in the New Year with an 80's Music Bash that features 4 musical acts: Missing Person's Dale Bozzio, Bow Wow Wow, When in Rome, and Gene Loves Jezebel! The Cave will have a buffet, dancing, dessert, costume contest, champagne toast, and prizes. The doors open at 6pm, the first band starts at 8pm and the party continues until 1am.

For more information, visit www.thecavebigbear.com.

The Cave is a 400-seat concert venue, located in the heart of Big Bear Village in the San Bernardino Mountains. Established in 2013, The Cave has hosted musical acts that included: Colt Ford, Berlin, Marshall Tucker Band, and Bill Medley. have been fully restored, thanks to donations from the community.

The baby Jesus, wise men and other statues making up the 12 life-sized scenes have undergone a complete restoration this year, having been reconstructed and painted by Los Angeles artist Kim Healy Pretti as close to their original state as possible. Thousands of dollars were raised through community donations to repair the weathered and damaged displays, which were originally created in the 1950s by artist Rudolph Vargas, who painted some of the original jolly villains in Disneyland's Pirates of the Caribbean ride, along with a legacy of religious statuary in churches all around Los Angeles – the largest displays of which were at Santa Teresita Hospital in Duarte: murals depicting the nativity and St. Joseph in his carpenter's shop.

Pretti has been researching Vargas, who died in the 1980s, and contacting those who knew him as a part of her restoration work.

"It's amazing what he's done, and how much of himself went into his work," Pretti said. "He was a very driven, devoted artist and Catholic who put his heart and soul into his work... Can you tell I'm into this project?"

CSUSB Theatre Takes 'Black Butterfly' On The Road

Modern classic by Luis Alfaro to play at CSUSB & CSUSB Palm Desert Campus

The Cal State San Bernardino Department of Theatre Arts kicks off 2015 with Black Butterfly, Jaguar Girl, Piñata Woman and Other Superhero Girls, Like Me, by Luis Alfaro, directed by Johanna Smith.

Opening Jan. 23, 2015, Black Butterfly explores the complicated world of five girls growing up in East L.A. The play is based on their writing from the seventh grade through high school, expertly put together into a series of poems, monologues, music and dramatic scenes filled with adolescent angst, humor, American slang, Spanish and Spanglish. The play is filled with introspective moments that are both joyful and sad, over many subjects that all girls face while growing up.

As the play progresses, the act of writing becomes transformative for the girls, their poetry granting them the ability to express themselves through memories, experiences and desires. Their progression from youth to early teens is noted by a series of poems, "Ten Things Girls Say to Each Other," which are scattered throughout the longer poems. As the girls grow, their concerns shift from topics such as their favorite television show, to their awkward interaction with boys, to their own growing self-awareness as young women. Black Butterfly will take its audience on a trip through the teenage psyche.

This special event performance will run three days only, Jan. 23-25, with a matinee showing at 2pm on Jan. 24 and 25; and 7pm performances on Jan. 23 and 24, all in the CSUSB Performing Arts Recital Hall.

Tickets can be purchased for the CSUSB Recital Hall performances from the CSUSB Theatre Arts Box Office, by phone at (909) 537-5884, or online at theatre.csusb.edu. Ticket prices are $6 for students and children under 17; $12 for faculty, staff, seniors and military; $15 for adults. Parking at CSUSB is $5.

Following the performances in the CSUSB Performing Arts Recital Hall, Black Butterfly will hit the road, taking the show to the CSUSB Palm Desert Campus for a weekend run at the Indian Wells Theater, with performances Jan. 30 at 7pm, and Jan. 31 at 2pm and 7pm.

Whitehead Film Festival Focuses On Interdependence

The Whitehead International Film Festival (WIFF) is a small annual festival located in Claremont. WIFF is inspired by the philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead – a worldview that focuses on the radically interdependent nature of all that exists. The festival brings together films from across the globe that touch on this interdependence.

The initial impetus for this festival in 2001 came from an international group of persons deeply influenced by the philosophical vision of Whitehead, a mathematician turned physicist turned philosopher in the first half of the 20th century. His queries into the “how” of this world led him to develop a vision in which all things that exist are interdependent. We live in and through our relationships with one another.

Because of this, we are ultimately responsible for one another – and therefore, we are personally and communally responsible for the common good.

Films are the common language of people around the world; we share our cultures through film; we share our perceptions of what it is to be human, our trials and our transformations. We select films of artistic excellence that do this very thing. Each film speaks of human dignity, of our responsibilities to one another, of problems common to us all, and of the hope of creative transformation in our very togetherness.

This year’s film festival features films from Saudi Arabia, Canada, Egypt, India, Japan, Sweden, Switzerland, Morocco/France, Argentina, and Singapore.

The opening night film, Wadjda, is directed by Haifaa Al Mansour, the first female filmmaker in Saudi Arabia. Wadjda is a 10-year-old girl whose greatest desire is to purchase a beautiful green bicycle so she can beat a neighborhood boy in a race. “Wadjda’s mother won’t allow it, fearing repercussions from a society that sees bicycles as dangerous to a girl’s virtue. So Wadjda decides to try and raise the money herself by entering a Koran recitation competition. Wadjda’s desire for the green bicycle mirrors adult women in Saudi Arabia’s inability to drive and the hope for female freedom.”

Other feature films include Ex- cuse My French, an Egyptian comedy that tells the story of a young Christian boy who is mistaken as Muslim in a predominantly Muslim school; Siddharth, an Indian drama that touches on the complex tragedy of abducted and runaway children; and The Grand Seduction, a Canadian comedy, which depicts the desperate lengths one mayor and a town will go to to seduce a doctor into staying so they can procure a factory contract and save the town.

Riverside Community Players Brings 'A Christmas Carol' And 'Private Lives'

'A Christmas Carol' In A 'Round' About Way

Riverside Community Players proudly celebrates its 90th season by presenting A Christmas Carol for the holidays. This traditional Family Series production is a Charles Dickens' classic.

Come enjoy this holiday favorite in a "round" about way at Riverside Community Players theater in the round.

Director Jason James returns to RCP this holiday season leading, once again, some of the most talented actors from all over the Inland Empire. James states, "I find it challenging and yet fun to mount a production that has been done for so many years and seen by so many people in a new, entertaining, and fresh way. I feel we've accomplished that the past two years, and I'm looking forward to returning to the magic of this show."

A Christmas Carol plays one weekend beginning Friday, Dec. 12 at 7pm, Saturday Dec. 13 at 2pm and 7pm, and Sunday Dec. 14 at 2pm. Call the Box Office for reservations and tickets at (951) 686-4030, or visit www.riversidecommunityplayers.org.

January Brings 'Private Lives'

This comedy of errors is part of Riverside Community Players 90th season. As part of its 2014-2015 season, Riverside Community Players is proud to present Private Lives, a 1930's comedy of manners in three acts by Noël Coward. The play focuses on Amanda and Elyot. Once the toast of the town and London's most fabulous married couple, they have not seen each other since their fiery divorce five years ago. They can't live together and they can't live apart. When they meet by chance on a hotel balcony, their passions re-ignite with explosive consequences due to the fact that they are both honeymooning with NEW spouses. They fall in love again and then learn to hate each other again. Full of rebellious flippancy, sophisticated romance, and Coward's hallmark rapier-like wit, this is a comedy that has stood the test of time....and then some!

After touring the British provinces, the play opened in London in 1930, starring Coward, Gertrude Lawrence, Adrienne Allen and Laurence Olivier. A Broadway production followed in 1931, and the play has been revived at least a half dozen times each in the West End and on Broadway.

The leading roles have attracted a wide range of actors. Among those who have succeeded Coward as Elyot are Robert Stephens, Richard Burton, Alan Rickman, and successors to Lawrence as Amanda have included Tallulah Bankhead, Elizabeth Taylor, Maggie Smith and Kim Cattrall.

Directors of new productions have included John Gielgud, Howard Davies and Richard Eyre. The play was made into a 1931 film and

Ontario Town Square Connects Community and Culture

Ontario recently dedicated its new Ontario Town Square park and amphitheater to enthusiastic crowds eager to celebrate their community with weekly outdoor markets, performances and places for people to meet, explore and connect.

Ontario Town Square, at 224 N. Euclid Ave., provides two acres of outdoor gathering space to the public, including an open-air amphitheater (seating up to 1,000), a rose garden for small gatherings, a courtyard with benches, walking paths and a whimsical play area for kids.

Visitors enjoy the organized events being planned there, including a farmer's market, concerts, art shows and stage performances. The Little River Band was the first to perform on the amphitheater stage, as a part of the city's popular Route 66 Cruisin' Reunion.

A photographic mural, depicting the city's history and culture, provides not only a point of interest to the park, but a popular place for people to mix and mingle.

It is the spot for some of the city's largest regional events, including the Cruisin' Reunion held each September, and the Christmas on Euclid Experience – a month-long holiday celebration of music, culture and fun.

"Ontario Town Square marks a significant step in our ongoing plans to bring new life to the downtown area with special events and places for people to gather," said Ontario Mayor Paul Leon. "It enhances our sense of community and gives people even more reasons to come together to enjoy our downtown multiple times throughout the year."

Michael Krouse, President and CEO of the Greater Ontario Convention & Visitors Bureau, said the new venue does a lot to enhance the region's draw as a destination for meetings and events.

"Town Square provides yet another opportunity for meeting and event professionals interested in hosting concerts, art festivals, open-air markets and more," he said. "We're very excited about how this will help to reshape the image and nightlife of our downtown area." IER

Fresh Fare And Fun Can Be Found At RIVERSIDE'S Downtown Farmers Market

Have you ever tasted a black carrot? Do you know all the variations of apples there are? Have you ever used soap made out of goat's milk? All of this and more can be found at the Riverside Downtown Farmers Market on Main Street between 5th and 6th Streets. The popular Downtown Farmers Market is the source for fresh fish, chicken, cheeses and, of course, vegetables. Many visitors have made the Market their first stop as they are planning menus for weekly family meals. A local restaurateur has even been spotted picking up fresh vegetables for the evening fare. Others stop by to purchase fresh cut flowers to brighten their day. The market features seasonal treats such as fresh orange juice and pistachios. Don't miss out on the fresh baked breads and the Mediterranean delight Baklava. In addition to the food, guests come to enjoy music and a stroll down Main Street. Riverside's Arlington Business District Transforms Into A Winter Wonderland

Winterfest in Arlington plans to attract shoppers to area businesses and put smiles on children's faces this holiday season

Bright lights and red bows will soon adorn sections of Magnolia Ave. and Van Buren Blvd. in Riverside's Arlington Business Improvement District (BID). Many BID businesses will participate in the Arlington Business Partnership's Business Decorating Contest to transform their storefronts into a winter wonderland for all holiday shoppers who wish to shop local and support small businesses this season.

The Arlington Business Partnership will kick off Winterfest in Arlington on November 29th from 6pm to 8:30pm with a tree lighting ceremony at Arlington Park. This family-friendly ceremony will include the lighting of the tree, hot beverages, and holiday carols of the California Baptist University's Choir. Christmas would not be complete without a visit from Santa who will be visiting select Arlington businesses in December. Santa will visit Arlington Park on December 13th from 1pm to 4pm and the McDonald's Restaurant at the Riverside Walmart on December 20th from 8am to 12pm. Children will have the opportunity to give St. Nick their holiday wish list and take a free commemorative photo. Each child will also receive a teddy bear during their visit with Santa to memorialize their special time.

The Arlington Business Partnership is proud to present Arlington families with these joyful activities and the promotion of the many great businesses in the Arlington Business Improvement District. The ABP strives to promote the businesses in Arlington to build a stronger community.

For more information on the Arlington Business Partnership or the Arlington Business Improvement District contact the ABP office at (951) 509-1100 or visit www.riversideabp.com.

About the Arlington Business Partnership (ABP) and Arlington Business Improvement District (ABID): On October 31, 2002, the Riverside City Council voted to establish the Arlington Business Improvement District which is managed by Arlington Business Partnership. The mission of the Arlington Business Partnership is to represent and promote Arlington businesses to stimulate the local economy and initiate improvement projects, thus creating a sense of pride for all who live, work and do business in Arlington. TER
